COAST FAIR PLANS ARE BIGGER AND CALL FOR BIGGER SUCCESS

Chambers of Commerce of Three Cities, Including Bay St. Louis, Will Have Representations—Electrical Illumination By Surcouf of Bay St. Louis.

Gulfport, Miss., Oct. 22.—Tremendous improvements are noted at the Fair Grounds in preparation for the opening of the biggest fair the Coast has ever known, Nov. 2. The Mississippi Gulf Coast Fair Association appointed A. G. Johnson secretary and manager of the fair and at all times he can be found on the grounds busily engaged in carrying out the really elaborate plans that are to make this year notable in the fair's history.

Outside the first improvement is found at the more accessible gate arrangement whereby only persons walking are admitted through the main entrance and this space has been carefully arranged with new gates and ticket seller's accommodations. Within the fence has been removed from around the baseball park and this placed south of the main exhibit hall, forming a fenced and protected free parking area, entrance to which may be gained a short distance west of the main entrance. The parking problem has been quite a mooted question at all fairs and it is thought that this present arrangement will materially assist the officials in handling the parking of cars. To the south of the baseball diamond bleachers are being erected that will enlarge the seating capacity of the grandstand and bleachers at least one-fourth so that fully 4,000 persons may be seated to witness the free performances which will be presented in the baseball diamond.

Booths Being Built.
Within the main building, the activity of many workmen gives evidence of the preparation that is in progress in preparing the booths. A great number of the booths are to be maintained this year by the same interests and there is no great change apparent in the arrangement of the large exhibit spaces. The Harrison county agriculture exhibits through commercial booth in the decorations, the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and which will maintain the city of Bay St. Louis booths, will be designed as a resort booth, and the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce which will be located as last year, facing the main aisle just in front of the stage at the rear of the large exhibit hall.

Among the booths to be maintained as eating places inside the exhibit hall that are to be conducted by women's organizations are the West Ward P. T. A., the Central Ward P. T. A., the Epworth League, the First Baptist church, the Humane Society, the city's booth and the Mother's Club of St. Francis de Sales Academy. Several of these have maintained booths formerly at the fair and have done very well indeed with their sales of home-cooked food. A large restaurant that will supply plain dinners has a concession inside, while a number of hamburger stands and lunch counters will be outside. Speaking of eating at the fair, somehow brings up the thought of the pop corn and peanuts and this concession has been left to the Coast "Popcorn King," Taylor.

Auto Row Attractive.
The automobile row to the south of the building is undergoing a decoration in the way of grill work being placed the full length and quite a lot of painting adding to the general appearance of attractiveness.

The lighting and electrical work is again in the hands of Archie Surcouf of the Surcouf Electric Shop of Bay St. Louis, and he is planning sufficient illumination for every part of the building and grounds. The fair association is to do its own decoration and for this purpose has obtained flares and lanterns for general tonal quality and effect will be hung over the electric lights the full length of the main aisle and in front of automobile row, with flags arranged along the center.

A large number of seats, capacity for seating 800 people, have been placed about the stage in the auditorium at the west end of the main exhibit hall. This arrangement was supplied as a resting place as well as a place for the concerts that are to be given daily.

The men from the Pressey Portable Building company arrived Monday to begin working of erecting the large portable building that is to be placed from the entrance gate to the main exhibit hall and which is to contain a number of industrial booths and concessions. This is a new feature of the fair's arrangement and it is thought that this building will supply a need.

The press booth that is being arranged and furnished by the Fair Association for the use of the newspapers and other publications of the Coast will be an unusually attractive place for the publicity folks to congregate and greet their friends. It is located on the south near the rear of the building. The Times-Picayune, of New Orleans, has secured a separate booth that is located just within the entrance on the main aisle.

CITY'S FINANCES GOOD.

Of the amount of equipment for the new Central school about $5,000 will be paid for cash from the city treasury, aside from the bond funds. Mayor Blaine and aldermen are good financiers.

COMING FROM FLORIDA.

None need to be a keen observer to note the number of automobiles passing through Bay St. Louis daily en route westward, either going back home or seeking new locations, all bearing the yellow license of Florida.

A few evenings ago there was a regular caravan of autos from the "State of Flowers" to reach the city and camped in the outskirts. Of all cars passing through the city going west the majority carry the Florida license. Earlier in the year it was the reverse. It is evident many who had gone to Florida either in prospect or to reside have changed their plans and are homeward bound.

Many, no doubt, linger along the Mississippi Coast and some find permanent location. There is a great lure and so much of the mystery in following the greatest number. But the awakening follows. Logically and inevitably.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast has better all-the-year-round climate; better location and nearer the center of all things. Having no equal the Gulf Coast has no rival.

ROMANCE OF YESTERDAY TOLD TODAY

There Is Story and Color to Bay St. Louis—The Indian Basket Weaver and Vendor of Yesterday.

The romance of Bay St. Louis is rich and deep in color. Someone asks for a book, "The Romance of Bay St. Louis." How do you want it, along what color and channel? Historical, Indian legendary, tales of moonlight across the bay when it appears as body of molten silver; or, perhaps, along the lines of today when the city is making such rapid strides. Cosmopolitan kaleidoscope; metropolitan embryonic, but growing fast.

The yesterday of Bay St. Louis embracing a span of over a century of years carries nothing but romance. Of Indian legends there are many. The late Gertrude Coward Penney sketches for The Echo and tells of the Indian legends, carry the legendary stories worthy of some day to be printed in handy book form.

It is not many years since, for many of the present generation well remember when the last of the Choctaw Indian tribe inhabited the forests of Bay St. Louis, especially along Bayou Lacroix, and periodically visited "the village" as the city of today was always affectionately referred to, selling the baskets, handmade, of sweet or smelly grass.

Baskets of all shapes, ingeniously fashioned; a basket for every purpose and to fill every want. Indian women, of swarthy and others of ruddy complexions, conspicuous for the size of their and the depth of their long black braids, carried on back along with their papoose, great supplies of the baskets.

In summer residents for the season from New Orleans and the general visitor were best customers. What a souvenir from Bay St. Louis it came from la belle Baie so it must be prized and cherished, and possibly today there are baskets of sweet smelling grass made by Bay St. Louis Indian, stored somewhere in garret or other dark recesses. The men seller appeared on the streets of the village. The women were the vendors, but the former, back in the premises amid the soothing pines, frequently lent hand and weaved possibly as well as the squaw but not so deftly. But all this is gone, and Bay St. Louis for its visitors has lost a striking attraction; in fact, an institution of other days.

Some years ago, the government carried away its Choctaw charges and in Oklahoma today there are some of the older Indians who frequently must think of Bay St. Louis affectionately when they tell of the happiest days of their lives—halcyon days. The romance of yesterday is gone, and with it, among other things, are the Indian baskets, woven and basket sellers of the village of Bay St. Louis.

You, of older years, dear reader, can yet picture him and her pack of baskets. "Picturish?" Well, ask the older residents. Time will never efface it from memory.

MANY AT CIRCUS TODAY.

Many from Bay St. Louis today are attending the Hagenback-Wallace circus at Gulfport, and many will go to night. The show is big.

BAY CITY HAS NEW ATHLETIC CLUB AT B-W-Y CLUBHOUSE

Bay Athletic Club Organized With Strong Personale.

CLUB IS SUBSTANTIAL
Membership From Ranks of Representative Young Men of City.

There was a very enthusiastic meeting held at the Bay-Waveland Yacht club on Wednesday evening, Oct. 20, for the formation of the Bay Athletic club.

With Mr. E. J. Lacoste, president pro tem, presiding, the meeting was called mainly for the purpose of organizing an athletic club. Earlier in the evening Mr. H. G. Perkins, president-elect; Mr. H. G. Perkins, secretary; Mr. Santos Shields, physical director; Mr. N. A. Renshaw, secretary and treasurer.

The object and purpose of this club is to promote athletics in all its branches and foster good fellowship among the young men of the Bay.

The Bay-Waveland Yacht club generously offered the newly-organized club use of its fine gymnasium, which, as was stated, is appreciated in more than the ordinary sense. It was stated by officials of the Bay Athletic club that the gym would probably be opened and ready for all members on Sunday morning, Oct. 24, tomorrow.

The only restrictions governing young men who wish to join this club are they must be members of the Bay-Waveland Yacht club, and must be over the age of 14.

The following members have already enrolled with more to follow: E. J. Lacoste, John Edwards, Harry Glover, Geo. Toca, Owens, C. A. James, Geo. B. C. Shields, Ed. Schwartz, P. V. Lacoste, H. S. Renshaw, H. G. Perkins, Santos Shields, N. A. Renshaw, W. Callender, J. C. Glover, Chas. Traub, Francis Boh, A. Leonard, Lawrence Chapman, Marion Green, Justin Green, C. A. Breath, Jr., Walter Leonard, C. J. DeArmas, John McDonald, Alfred Chapman, Henry Chapman, E. J. Lacoste, Jr., R. B. Lacoste, Frank Green, W. Wells, H. Glover, Jr.

From this personnel it will be noted the membership is drawn only from the representative of the city, with more names to follow, and the intention to have an organization of high grade, hand in hand, as it were, with the Bay-Waveland club. One of the main qualifications, it is noted, to become a member is first to be a member of the Yacht club, the Bay-Waveland club, which in itself is a qualification that recommends and will mean for the permanent and popularity of the newer club.

A club of this kind in Bay St. Louis in time will have an important membership, for it will be a privilege to be identified with the move. Besides, the world has gone into athletics, and any who join in the movement will not go amiss.

PRESIDENT OF ST. STANISLAUS ILL IN N. O. HOSPITAL

Brother Peter Taken to Mercy Hospital in New Orleans—Has Been in Ill Health For Some Time But Is Reported Out of Danger.

The many friends of Bro. Peter, the popular president of the Stanislaus College will learn with regret that he has been stricken ill and removed to the Mercy Hospital in New Orleans for treatment.

Bro. Peter had been in ill health ever since his trip through Louisiana, just prior to the opening of this school term. His illness was attributed to a case of overstrained nerves—he being exceedingly busy preparing for the coming session—but when he found it advisable to confine himself to the infirmary at the college, Brother Edmund, the vice-president, became alarmed and conferred with Dr. Horton, the college physician. Still being under the impression that the president was suffering from nervousness, the physician advised that he be removed to New Orleans where he could be quiet.

Illness Diagnosed.
Upon being admitted to the Mercy hospital, Dr. Jamieson, with the assistance of Dr. Houser, the famous bacteriological specialist, began a diagnosis of Bro. Peter's case and found that he was suffering from a light attack of typhoid fever.

Dr. Houser's first question was "Where has Bro. Peter been in the last eight weeks?"

Upon being told that he had been through Louisiana, Dr. Houser remarked, "I knew that the cold could not be contracted there, as it is not a disease of that climate, but I am glad to find that the drinking water there was found to be pure."

The physicians pronounced the attack a light one and the speedy recovery of the patient is looked for. A representative of The Echo called on Bro. Peter Friday and found him full of hope that he would soon be back home with his beloved flock.

MISS. COAST CLUB PLANS FOR ACTION IN YEAR'S WORK

President Poole Gives Voice to Fact Club's Splendid Work Must Continue.

FUNDS ARE NEEDED
Educational Campaign Planned in Order to Raise Necessary Funds.

"We must continue the great work we have undertaken—even at a cost of personal effort," the Mississippi Coast club must continue to get across to the world at large the wonderful story of the numberless opportunities to be found here." Addressing members of the board of directors at a meeting in Biloxi Tuesday, President George C. Poole so closed his outline of the program for a refinancing campaign to start immediately, that the Coast Herald.

The meeting had been called to consider plans for an educational campaign which will be followed by a united effort to raise a fund of $50,000 with which the work of the club will be financed during the coming twelve months. Courtland Yount, campaign manager in the staff of the American City Bureau, presented a picture of the conditions along the Coast, and they had been found in an extensive survey conducted last week by Yount and John P. Mack, his co-worker.

Reflecting the opinions of leaders in every community from Pascagoula to Biloxi, the bureau man stated that the need for recognition of the need for the services of the Coast club and that it is universally believed that at this time above any other it is necessary to unite in an effort to consolidate the work already accomplished and to lay plans for further extensions of the publicity program which the club has undertaken.

Expressions of opinion that current business conditions should effect a reduction in the annual budget of the club were given careful consideration at the meeting. It was marked that without exception such expressions had been accompanied by emphatic statements that the Coast organization must keep up the good work now underway.

A detailed chart of a suggested campaign program was submitted to the directors by Yount and was accepted without change. Approval was also given to a form of pledge on which subscribers are to be asked to make commitments to the club. It was further agreed that to better in good standing an advisory committee will be formed, the personnel to be announced within the next few days. A meeting for directors and others who will become members of a special campaign executive committee will be held on Monday, Oct. 25, at the meeting hour and place will be forward shortly to those who have been invited to serve on the directing committee.

In recognition of the importance of the two largest cities in the Mississippi Coast it was determined to operate a double campaign headquarters, offices being maintained at both Gulfport and Biloxi. Staff men of the bureau will be in charge of these offices and their efforts will be supplemented by numerous addresses delivered before carefully chosen audiences by Dr. Henry Clark, a noted speaker here to assist in making the campaign a success.

It was decided that an attempt to complete the campaign by November 13 would be made and that this busy schedule would enable the club to prepare its work in ample time of take full advantage of the approaching winter season.

The campaign goal of $50,000 represents a substantial reduction from the goal sought last year. In commenting on this, Louis Braun, Biloxi director of the club, said, "We do not want to burden business and professional men with one unnecessary penny of expense in continuing the important and numerous work of the club. With the needed fund subscribed, it will be possible to do a great deal of effective work in establishing the Mississippi Coast as the playground of the nation and as a place in which business and investment opportunities are unrivaled."

WANTS A MILLION TO DEFEND MAILS

Recent Big Mail Robberies Makes Postmaster General Figure on Cost of Organizing Protective Forces For Mail Trains.

One million dollars will be sought by Postmaster General E. A. Tamm for the organization, training and equipping of an armed force within the postal service to protect the mails from banditry.

He announced he would submit the request for funds to the House of Representatives. Director Lord of the budget bureau, and ask that it be transmitted to Congress. Pending organization of this special force, United States Marines again will serve as guardians of the mails, the first of the "Devil dogs" probably taking up the duty this week-end with orders to deal ruthlessly with would-be robbers.

LOW CURRENT RATE FOR BAY ST. LOUIS EFFECTIVE JAN. 1ST

B. E. Eaton, President Mississippi Power Company, Announces Reduction.

PROMISE FULFILLED
Entire Gulf Coast Benefited By Big Reduction of Power Rates.

B. E. Eaton, president of the Mississippi Power company, from Gulfport, announces to The Echo that effective Jan. 1, the company would inaugurate its standard hydro rates for electric service in the Gulf Coast area. This is an announcement which has been looked forward to by residents of this territory. Where Bay St. Louis residents are now paying 15 cents per KWH in future the rate will be 10 cents per KWH. It will be remembered the company reduced the rate from 17 cents to 15 cents, and now a radical drop to 10 cents.

In connection with the announced change in rates Mr. Eaton said, "While this change will mean a great saving to our customers as a whole it will also mean a material reduction in the company's revenue in the Gulf Coast section. The reduction comes at a time when the company is unable to make a corresponding reduction in operating expenses, since the present, steam plant operation must be continued."

The new residential and commercial lighting rate begins at 10 cents per KWH for the first 30 KWH per month. The complete lighting schedule is as follows:

Ten cents per KWH for first thirty KWH per month; plus eight cents per KWH for next 170 KWH per month; plus seven cents per KWH for next 300 KWH per month; plus six cents per KWH for next 350 KWH per month; plus five cents per KWH for all over 350 KWH per month.

The above rate replaced the old rate for lighting which began at 15 cents per KWH for the first 50 KWH per month and scaled down to 6 cents per KWH for the last 50 KWH.

The new rate also reduces the minimum charge for combined cooking and lighting from $4.50 per month to $3.00 per month. Thirty KWH are furnished for this minimum bill as before. The energy charge has not been changed on this rate, remaining at 3-1/2 cents for the next 150 KWH per month and 2-1/2 cents for all over 180 KWH per month. This rate was only recently installed by the company.

The new power rates fall under several classes depending on the conditions of service to which the rate is applied; therefore, it is impossible to make a comparison of power rates in a limited space. The Mississippi Power company will explain the new power rates to those interested on application.

This change in rates places the Gulf coast territory in line with other cities served by Mississippi Power company.

NEW FORD CARS IN COLOR ARRIVE IN BAY ST. LOUIS

Edwards Bros., in Main Street, Received First Shipment of Cars in Lacquer Finish of Different Tints and Shades—Attract Attention.

The new Ford car in colors has arrived, and are on exhibition at the Ford garage, of Edwards Bros., opposite the postoffice. The lacquer finish has its advantages. It is more durable than varnish finish and will give the car longer life—in appearance, at least.

Milady, fastidious and correct, might have a favorite color to the extent the shade might predominate in dress, hair, car must correspond as far as possible. On the other hand, one tires of black, the funeral car color, and the color scheme will be more than welcomed. We Americans of today quickly tire of sameness. And it is right. Mr. Stick-in-the-Mud will always live in the rut. He likes it. But the live man or woman says, "Times change and we must change with the times." Right.

Edwards Bros. have new models on display just now in the following colors, with more coming: Fordor, mole, Tudor and Coupe, channel green, tourings, roadsters, black, blue and brown.

L. J. Norman, executive manager, and others connected with the firm will be glad to show the new cars.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS THANKFUL

To members and friends of the Chamber of Commerce who co-operated so splendidly in granting the use of automobiles on October 20th, to meet the delegation from Illinois, our guests for a few hours, I wish to assure one and all of our appreciation for the hearty support extended. We realized that it infringed on the time of many, but in the face of this every one waited very patiently for the arrival of guests, and we are indebted for the success of the visit.

By S. P. Gentry.

PARTY OF ILLINOISANS WHILE ON GULF COAST GUESTS OF BAY CITY

Some Sixty-Odd Residents of Chicago and Other Parts of State Delighted With Bay St. Louis—Chambers of Commerce Guests at Luncheon.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce is ready to assist all who may apply for information. In fact, it is a bureau of information charging nothing for its organized and highly specialized service.

On the verge of the winter season, there are many people, possibly a number of readers of The Sea Coast Echo living away, who may be contemplating coming South. A letter addressed to the secretary will receive prompt attention. Possibly someone wishes a business or residence location; a hotel or apartment or boarding house. A letter will put the inquirer in possession of facts desired.

Local residents may file with Secretary Gentry rooms or apartments they may have available for winter visitors and in this way he will have information when asked for.

The Chamber of Commerce is for the public to use and this splendid civic organization is at the disposal of all interests at all times. It is one of the city's greatest factors and it is the purpose to expand its usefulness to greater bounds and over a wider area.

MEMORY OF OTHER DAYS OF THE BAY

Where Hospitality, Health-Giving Native Wine Grew
Roses and Peaches on Faded Cheeks.

With the rapid advent of things that go to make a new Bay St. Louis and one so different from that of yesterday, deliciously fragrant of the romance of the "things that were," no place was more popular and frequented with more genuine pleasure than the charming resort of Brown's vineyard, with its European fashioned cellars where rare wines of old vintage awaited to paint the colors of rare pigment such as roses and peaches on the pale cheek of the wan, anemic visitor who had come to "the Bay" in quest of better health.

A visit to Bay St. Louis during a period of over fifty years immediately preceding that of today was far from complete without a visit to Brown's. The parents of the present genial proprietor of the place, were known far and wide for the excellent hospitality. No one who visited the famous vineyard of other days without the most pleasant recollection and the warmth of a reception that was genuine.

A feature of Brown's of other years was the register. Herein, through several volumes, thousands inscribed their names and callings, and it was customary to write over one's name a verse, either original or purloined. Where the verse failed in its place there were always clever remarks regarding the "time and place." These volumes contain names of people from over the world, of the great and near-great.

These volumes of registers have been carefully preserved and put away. Possibly, dear reader, your name is among others. You drank copiously of the delicious vintage that inspired and what lines you might have written! Possibly today you would deny the child of your genius then. But the fact remains, nevertheless, if you were there what a pleasant memory of the place lingers, even yet to this day of Brown's.

Then many a moonlight evening, with its caressing silvery floods, crowds of young people in parties visited Brown's. It was the custom before the advent of the automobile to give "hay rides", wagons filled with sweet-smelling hay made it comfortable and accommodated many. Reaching Brown's—five miles from the city—a long distance then over sandy roads, Mrs. Brown, a dear old lady of other days, greeted with a spirit that at once made you welcome, and since always somebody in the crowd performed on the piano there was music for dancing. No enjoyable parties today like those of twenty-five and thirty years ago.

In writing the history and romance of Bay St. Louis, who ever will some day write such a book will surely not forget Brown's vineyard, along with the other ineffable joys of the years gone by, the Bay St. Louis of yesterday and of cherished memory.

CALLS ATTENTION TO RATES.

Luther M. Ansley, local resident manager of the Mississippi Power company, calls attention to his company's reduced rates, in effect Jan. 1st, and which figures are published elsewhere in this paper.

Under the auspices of the Bay St. Louis Rotary club, a later more specifically and directly under the direction of the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce some sixty prominent Illinoisans visited this city Wednesday, reaching the ferry pier at about the noon hour, arriving from a visit to Pine Hills.

The "Celina," owned and operated by Pine Hills company, a pleasure power yacht owned by our enterprising townsman, Victor Camors, carried the party over, in charge of Warren Jackson, representing the Mississippi Coast club, and H. S. Weston, president of Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Many automobiles were in waiting at the street end of the ferry pier, with a large representation of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Vice-President C. B. Fisher and S. F. Gentry, secretary, in addition to members of the executive committee and of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was a glorious day, typical of the golden autumn on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and the visitors were delighted with everything they saw. It was new and beautiful, and, as one party expressed it, the days here on the Gulf Coast must be all too short. Through the instrumentality of the Chamber of Commerce a number of residents gave the use of their beautiful cars, and the party of some sixty-odd were at once driven to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wisner, "On the Beach," where a reception was tendered at the home. Mrs. Wisner was assisted in receiving by Mrs. A. F. Fournier. Pressed for time, the party did not remain as long as the host and hostess would have wished. The visitors would have been glad to tarry longer—there was so much to see and learn. "On the Beach" is the wonder place on the Gulf Coast, but already far behind the day's schedule it was necessary to curtail the program. Hon. E. J. Gex delivered an address of welcome in his usual engaging manner, and other speakers included Warren Jackson, H. S. Weston and J. N. Wisner.

A drive over the city followed the reception, and Capt. Drackett's ferry carried the entire party over to Henderson Point, on Bay St. Louis, where luncheon was served at the Inn-by-the-Sea, with Dr. Robertson, president of the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce, presiding. The luncheon was tendered the members of the delegation from the State of Illinois with the compliments of the Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, as joint hosts. Bay St. Louis was represented by C. Greer Moore, vice-president (from Hancock county) Mississippi Coast club, and a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Bay St. Louis, the latter delivering the address of welcome on behalf of Bay St. Louis, while Dr. Robertson welcomed the party in behalf of the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce. Other speakers were President Poole, president Mississippi Coast club; Warren Jackson, managing director Mississippi Coast club, and First Vice-President Bowes, of the Illinois Central.

It was a most pleasant occasion and a splendid wind-up of the visit to points of interest on Bay St. Louis; namely, Pine Hills, City of Bay St. Louis, "On the Beach" estate and Henderson Point. Automobiles from Gulfport were in waiting and at the conclusion of the luncheon the party was driven to view the building of Edgewater Gulf Hotel, nearing completion, a Chicago enterprise in which the Illinoisans were intensely interested.

Going over on the ferry many expressions were overheard by the visitors to Bay St. Louis. They were thoroughly charmed with what they saw. The paved streets, the winding roads along the north beach and through the pines along Dunbar Avenue, and then up Main street. The many inviting homes along the beach front were of unusual interest; the sloping beaches and the oaks as well as the pines. One gentleman from Chicago said it is a picture of combine elements that one can never forget. "I shall never forget that beautiful sheet of water, the Bay of St. Louis, with its surrounding shores of green trees and sheet of silver beaches," he continued, and concluding, he said, "It's an unforgettable picture."

The roster of the visitors follows: E. D. Abell, sales manager, Grinnor Land company, Crilly Bldg., Chicago. V. E. Allen, salesman, Grinnor Land company, Crilly Bldg., Chicago. G. P. Allenmendinger, First National Bank, Chicago. Mrs. G. P. Allenmendinger. J. A. Asserson, president, J. A. Asserson company, 5 S. Wabash avenue, Chicago. F. B. Bowes, vice-president, Illinois Central System, Chicago. Mrs. Mack Brown, 4509 North Paulina street, Chicago. F. Browning, amusement business, Chicago. H. G. Bullock, account executive, Caples company, 226 E. Erie street, Chicago. W. G. Butler, assistant cashier, Com'l and Commercial Bank, Chicago. D. A. Basso, Chicago.

HOW RAILROADS HELP THE COAST

During a brief address Wednesday by Vice-President Bowes, of the Illinois Central Railroad company, on the occasion of the joint luncheon by Chambers of Commerce of Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis at Henderson Point, on Bay of St. Louis, that official took occasion to say how the Edgewater Gulf hotel and the Markham hotel were projected and built, and from what he said it was evident the Illinois Central was instrumental in bringing about both enterprises.

Mr. Bowes said he had first suggested the building of the Edgewater and had gotten together two master minds who were at that time total strangers, Mr. Billingsley, of New Orleans, and Mr. Marshall Wilder, of Chicago, and later others who planned for another project are now finishing "The Markham" at Gulfport.

Mr. Bowes also announced in the near future the building of a master tourist hotel at Pass Christian. Thus, it is evident the railroads may and can do much for our Coast, as the two instances herein related evidences. The announcement of the hotel at Pass Christian brought forth much applause. It was made initially and officially and will come to pass in the immediate future. It might be well to state here that in this connection there are many other big projects to be announced soon; that this winter will witness such things that will accelerate the growth of the Coast in a manner without precedent.

It was also announced officially by Mr. Bowes that on the first of January the time of the Illinois Central "Mississippi" train from Chicago would be cut down appreciably. It was hinted that while the time now made is 20 hours it will be reduced to 18 hours and subsequently to 16 hours, and without discomfort to the travelers. Heavier rails were replacing the old ones and better roadbed would warrant fast and easy riding traveling.

A MAJOR PROJECT NEARING COMPLETION.

While there are a number of major projects in and around Bay St. Louis either in process of construction or about to be started, while others are in the embryonic state, none have reached that stage of completion and stand out more emboldened than that which we were pleased to call in a recent issue of The Echo as "The Enchanted Castle," viewing it from the distance, especially since distance lends enchantment, either mentally or visually, and that is Pine Hills Hotel.

A visit there a few days since reveals the interior, speaking of building properly, over 90 per cent. the finished product. Finishing touches are added and the work of furnishing will be comparatively a matter of small concern. Already the vast kitchen of this modern hostelry has its major equipment, the latest the master mind of ingenious man to conceive. And on the exterior the grounds are in process of being terraced, and it is easy to discern that all will be in readiness for the formal opening, dated for Thanksgiving. This two million-dollar investment will attract thousands of people to this section who otherwise would never visit; who will tarry and visit Bay St. Louis frequently and to mutual profit.

Pine Hills development and Pine Hills Hotel are massive and prophetic. They forecast the great future for this marvelous section of the coast, where the bay provides a double shoreline, unlike the main coast line; where there is individual charm, a permanent lure and where fond desire finds lodgment.

WHERE IT IS A PRIVILEGE TO LIVE.

Expressions voiced by the visitors from Illinois Wednesday on the occasion of their visit to Bay St. Louis were in the superlative.

None who visit Bay St. Louis and immediate section pay no other tribute but to praise and express wonderment at the beauty spot that nature has fondly nestled down in this nook of the South, on the blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Like the modest violet, Bay St. Louis, the jewel city of the wonder coast, is hidden for the reason its praises have not been sung aloud; there has been no herald, no courier until late, with the birth of civic organizations which are doing telling work and the result of which is beginning to bear fruit.

It was through the instrumentality of the Mississippi Coast club, the party, headed by Governor Lowden, were carried to the Coast, and later through the medium of the Bay St. Louis Rotary club and Chamber of Commerce invited to visit Bay St. Louis.

Our guests have come and gone. We feel sure they came with anticipation and left by no means disappointed. On the contrary, from comment, unanimously expressed, they were reluctant to leave. They might have spent the entire day in Bay St. Louis to advantage. We were glad to have them visit; hope they will return and be the means of sending others. We want more visitors; more people to know of Bay St. Louis, not only as a place on the map but as a spot of beauty, a place to live and to enjoy the charm of life. It is truly the Land of the Heart's Desire. Hidden, and comparatively unknown possibly, a kind of a Lost Paradise.

But the time of awakening has arrived. The hope is expressed that many others will enjoy the rare privilege which is enjoyed only by those who live here.

SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION

There was a splendid spirit of co-operation manifested Wednesday by the Chambers of Commerce of Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis on the occasion of the entertainment, consisting of a luncheon, given at the Inn-by-the-Sea. The event was the visit of a delegation of visitors from Illinois, principally from Chicago, who came South with Ex-Governor Lowden to attend Illinois Day at the Jackson State Fair.

With the Chamber of Commerce of Pass Christian and the Chamber of Commerce of Bay St. Louis as co-host to the party, the event was well worth the while and effort. There was a representative delegation from the Middle West who came to see the beauties of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and to bask in the glorious sunshine and balmy weather of waning October. It was one of our many golden fall days for which the Coast is famous, and every element seemed to have conspired to make the consummation of every detail and the fruition of every thought for attention successful.

Thus, by the splendid co-operation of both cities, there were brought together representatives from a section of the country where the Mississippi Gulf Coast is the "cynosure of all eyes" and by this commendable get-together spirit two cities-by-the-sea entertained with hospitality that was not only manifestly genuine but double in effort and combined in sincerity.

THE SESQUI A FLOP

The Philadelphia Exposition, better known as the Sesqui, has been a terrific flop from a financial standpoint. Opening under extremely adverse conditions, with much construction unfinished, the exhibition received adverse comment from many sources.

It is now drawing to a close, with little indication that the exposition will be prolonged. Mayor Kendrick makes an obvious remark when he attributes its plight to a "failure of the people to go there." Whereas an attendance of 25,000,000 was anticipated the paid attendance has been less than 5,000,000. The operating expenses are around $40,000 a week in excess of receipts, and the exposition owes some $3,000,000 for construction work.

The city of Philadelphia, it is expected, will make good the $5,000,000 deficit, in addition to its $15,000,000 already contributed. The mistake of opening the Sesqui, half ready, was not helped by adverse weather conditions, argument over Sunday opening, and the easily flooded terrain on which it was constructed.

The World's Fair at Chicago drew 21,000,000 people, and St. Louis and San Francisco did almost as well. The Sesqui, in its finished state, is a worthy spectacle and should be visited by as many as possible before it closes.

PERSHING'S WARNING

General Pershing, who has set a splendid example since the war, sounds a warning against further reductions in the strength of the army. Pointing out that an army of less than 125,000 cannot perform the duties of peace, and will not be a sufficient nucleus for expansion in the event of war the general continues:

"There can be no earthly justification for saving a few million dollars a year on the army during peace, if, as a consequence, we must spend many billions in an emergency in an attempt to make up deficiencies."

FREE INSURANCE

Many public buildings, in the state of South Carolina, enjoy free insurance. Some years ago the state took over the risks on its public buildings, requiring, however, the payment of premiums as usual. The law provided that when the reserve totalled $1,000,000 no further premiums should be charged. That limit has been reached.

CURRENT COMMENT.

BY HARRY STUART SAUCIER.

Hair-Raising Prices.

The Barber's Union has promulgated the fact that the price of shearing has gone up. The price of shearing, in fact, and furthermore, has increased to meet the financial needs of the Tonsorialist, upon whom the left of Old Man H. C. L. has been leaning rather heavily of late.

The Bobbers have taken lessons from John D. and others in the matter of dividends. The greater number of motors and gas consumption, the greater the price. "It is the law of supply and demand," said a friend of ours, "An idiom that you can twist any way you care to and make it suit your honorable case."

In this particular instance, the "supply" has increased overwhelmingly by the fair sex, who have sacrificed "crowning beauty" for flapper fashion. The "demand" has been merged into an insistence calling for extreme art.

With the elevation into the realms of art, the master of the footstep, but followed the footsteps of other masters—therefore you pay for art.

A Jap Hero.

A news item comes from the land of the Mikado:

"Capt. Masahiko Amakasu, a gendarme officer who strangled to death the feared anarchist Sakae Osugi, his wife and their 10-year-old nephew during the confusion of the earthquake in September, 1923, has been released from prison, where he had been serving a ten-year sentence."

The dispatch goes on further to say that the captain is generally regarded as a hero, despite the brutality of his act.

"Jap hero" this. Had he stepped after killing the "social wart," there would probably be something to him, but when he took the life of a defenseless woman and little child, he became a deeper dyed villain than Osugi, and should have paid the Piper.

As he is on his way to join the Chinks in their war, there's little doubt that he'll get what's coming to him there.

Queen Marie.

The Queen is here, long live the Queen!

In all the regal splendor of royalty, a queen has landed on our shores.

On the first of the queen, the most popular and best loved of Europe's rulers, comes to meet us face to face, to know us first hand and to see our great democratic country with its wealth of nature's art.

Her Majesty is here to see all— from ocean to ocean and makes no gruff. She comes here with a good impression already formed of Americans by personal contact abroad. She comes with the smile of friendship, and we Americans must strive to have her leave with the sigh of regret.

The profits accruing from this visit of Roumania's queen will be manifold. She, herself, will enjoy the many beauties of our country, she will become entranced with the greatness of our democracy and the common people of far off Roumania will profit by the lessons she must learn.

One of the first acts of the queen was the visit to the tomb of America's unknown soldier, where she bent her stately head in silent prayer and laid a wreath upon the tomb. A tribute from the woman in her.

The Ire of Irion.

Gov. Simpson, of Louisiana, has fired Dr. V. K. Irion, V. K. the Doc, won't stand for it; he got very mad, fired the man who was to take his place as Commissioner of Conservation, and wrote the Gov. that His Excellency could not discharge him.

The Gov. claims that the Doc and his underlings have dug too deep into the coffers of the State, by some twenty-four thousands, and he is determined the gentleman in question must go back to his practice for a livelihood.

Decapitations in public office seem to be in order with the new governor; if they all take it with the Irion, the ire of the M. D. there'll be some hot times over on the west side of Pearl river.

The Old Spanish Trail.

The Magnolia State is calling the Pelicans back in reference to the completion of the old trail.

It is about time that somebody's hand was being called. Grafty politicians have put a monkey wrench in the machinery and, as usual, the people must suffer.

A few men who see millions ahead have foisted the toll bridge scheme, gotten into the good graces of the powers and are about to cut their own cake, to the discomfort of the many.

The dream of the motorist for an easy outlet to and from the Gulf Coast will be turned into a nightmare if the toll bridge people succeed. News dispatches say that Senator Pat Harrison—our own Pat—will make things hum as soon as he finishes his speaking tour of the west, let us hope so, for we well know that when Pat gets behind them some fur will begin to fly. An atmosphere of fur is a delight to the senator.

Winter Visitors.

"An influx of winter visitors for the Gulf Coast is expected soon." So reads a news item.

Householders on the Coast welcome the good news. A bit of sane advice may not be amiss.

If such be really the case, let courtesy and fair dealing be the watchword. Make the visitors feel the welcome on all sides. Don't GOUGE.

C. Bidwell Adam, candidate for lieutenant-governor, left Pass Christian on a tour of North Mississippi, where he expects to conduct an active campaign. Before returning he will visit Calhoun and Pontotoc counties, the former being the home of Lieut. Gov. Murphree. Mr. Adam last week made a tour of the counties in the southwestern section of the state and says his campaign will carry him into every county in the state.

The Southern States Building and Construction company, which has been installing the warworks system at Ocean Springs, and which also has the contract for paving a number of streets in the town, informed the Ocean Springs authorities that it was financially unable to carry out its contracts, according to press telegrams. The city officials have requested the directors of the construction company to complete the waterworks and the paving.

"What They Say Whether Right or Wrong."

The Maharajah of Burdaw, visiting London:

"I was greatly surprised that amid all the congratulatory speeches made in honor of Cobham's wonderful achievement not one word was uttered expressing thanks to God for His share in enabling so wonderful a performance."

Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania:

"There is a tendency seen, not only in Illinois and Pennsylvania, but in many other states, to buy elections, to steal elections."

Clara Butt, English singer:

"What we need is more songs like 'The Lost Chord'."

De Martino, Ambassador from Italy:

"I am in a position to deny the rumor that Italy intends to attack the Turkish Republic. Such rumors are absolutely absurd and misleading."

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, of the University of Michigan:

"Democracy, a self-evident failure, treats people as if they were intelligent, kind, pure, high, generous and sweet, when they are nothing of the sort."

Lady Astor, sailing for Europe:

"Religion isn't gloomy; it is happy—something to cheer us and make us more content."

Dr. Edward W. Stitt, Associate Superintendent New York City Schools:

"Family prayers and even the asking of blessing before meals are no longer the rule, but rather the exception."

Will Durant, author:

"Women have taken up smoking, swearing, drinking and shaving, but there can be no true freedom until the mind is emancipated."

ROCKACHAWS SWAMP N. O. TEAM BY SCORE 66-0

Schwartz-to-Zeke-to-Goal Ariel Baffles Visitors—Hard
Game Scheduled With Audubon For Sunday,
October 24th.

The Stanislaus Rockachaws are battling 1000 men on the grid, and it seems that the further they go the bigger the scores pile.

Last Sunday they took on a team called the Combines of New Orleans. A combination of ex-college men in whose breasts the old spirit of the grid work die. They tried the old once good game and in their class are good yet, but in tackling the Combines they had skidded off their ways and got into too high a class of pigskin artists. That bewildered the bunch and they soon realized that they were biting off a bit too much when they got a game with the locals.

It was just two minutes by the watch when the Rocks started their scorefest with straight football; there after they mixed up a concoction that had their opponents in the air until the last gun. Whenever the red jerseys felt that there was something coming to them, they cut loose an ariel attack that read in boxcar letters: Schwartz-to-Zeke-to-Goal, and over went the oval for a touchdown.

How They Scored.
King kicked off to the ovals thirty-yard line where Bonura got the ball and raced forty yards to the Combines' thirty. The Rocks suffered two off-sides penalties, netting ten yards. Burns circled left for ten and Bradley went off tackle for first down. Bonura took the oval and by a brilliant run around right put the ball down for the first marker. Schwartz failed to kick the extra point—score, 6-0.

On the kickoff Combine got the ball on their twenty-yard line and returned it. They tried the kicking game but soon found the line was sturdy for their attacks and punted on fourth down. The punt was received by Schwartz in his own forty-yard and he carried it to Combines' thirty-two line before being downed; Glover bucked center twice for small gains. Bradley took eight off tackle. Two first downs came rapidly, but a fumble caused a loss, a pass was incomplete on fourth down and the ball went to Combines, who in the very shadow of their goal oasts had the audacity to buck the line and waited till the fourth down before punting to midfield.

The home combination then showed their stuff. Schwartz completed a twenty-yard pass to Zeke and followed immediately with another that went over for the second marker, the kick for point failed. Score, 13-0. In the second quarter the boys took it a bit easy and scored once. The visitors were not discouraged entirely for they fought gamely and at times showed some flashes. It was in this quarter that they made their only first down in the game, a criss cross play going for ten yards. Scalfie broke through on the next play, however, and ruined their chances.

The score in this quarter was made when the Combines tried to punt back of their own line and Legier ran in and blocked the kick. LaNasa falling on the ball for the touchdown, Schwartz kicked the extra point—20-0.

Three touchdowns were made in the next quarter, coming in rapid succession. Working the ball down to the Combines twenty-one yard line, Schwartz and Burns fired first, down, and Glover went the nine yards balance for the score; Schwartz missed the point—33-0. On the next fourth down punt for the visitors; Schwartz received on the thirty-two yard line and carried it brilliantly with excellent timing to the twelve yard. Big Zeke bucked for seven yards and Marchie dove over for the touchdown and registered the extra point—40-0.

The next score came in a hurry, LaNasa intercepting a pass on Combines' ninety yard line. After a loss of two yards on an attempted end run, Schwartz passed to Bonura for the score and kicked the point—47-0. Commagere had taken most of his first string men out and the subs were in clover. With the ball on the visitors' twenty-six yard line, Slade intercepted a pass, and Schwartz then ended the agony by another long one to Zeke, which went over for another marker, Marchie kicking the point—54-0.

Glover took the next punt and carried it back twenty-five yards. Schwartz skirted left for thirty and then passed to Slade for the score. The minutes were swiftly flying and the poor Combines were trying desperately to score and save a shut out, they were trying the aerial route when Laroux grabbed one out of the air and sailed over for the final score. Schwartz missed the point and the doleful agony ended 66 to 0.

The lineup:
Stanislaus: Combines:
Bonura LE Lochman
Scalfie LF Voeglin
J. Hunter LG Voeglin
Montz C Gendreau
Legier RG Rasmussen
Sassone RT Sutherland
LaNasa RE Schmidt
Schwartz QB Leonard
Burns RB Copping
Glover FB King
Bradley FB King

Score by periods:
Stanislaus 13 7 27 19—66
Touchdowns—Bonura, 4; LaNasa, Burns, Glover, Schwartz, Slade, Laroux, O'Brien, Green (A. & M.), Warner (L. S. U.), Glover (A. & M.), Field Judge—Green (Tulane-head line man).

Grover Cleveland Alexander emerged from the world's series as the outstanding star, winning two games by excellent pitching and saving a third, the last, by gameness and resourcefulness. Seldom has a more dramatic scene been staged than when he went into the box, in the decisive game, with Lazzeri at bat, the bases full, two outs and Pennock pitching winning ball for New York. That the old veteran struck out the young Yankee climaxed the contest.

There is only one Fly-Boy.

ROCKACHAWS TO PLAY AUDUBONS TOMORROW

Tomorrow, Sunday 24th, will see a football game that will be IT good and strong from whistle to gun. The local college boys meet their foes of 1925, the very powerful Audubon eleven from New Orleans, who won on the local grid last year by the short score of 7-0.

Commagere is anxious to meet these lads again, and every man jack on the Rockachaw eleven is "aring" to be turned loose at them to avenge the licking of the past year, as well as to keep their own record unbroken for this season.

The fact that such a game is on the tapis for tomorrow will be a great incentive for a large attendance.

Among the visiting spectators last Sunday were the two well known basketball referees, Ed Watts and Doctor Dan Reilly, of Gulfport.

Conspicuous by his military uniform, Lieut. Thomas, of G. C. M. A., was the target of many eyes out at the game. The genial officer is the G. C. M. A. football mentor, and was over giving the Rocks the "one" on the account of the nearness of the date when the two elevens do battle here.

That is one game that is keenly looked for, and it will be a hard-fought one when it does start. It is rumored that the student soldiers have several—well, call them "good players," eh?

When the Algiers Marines were here a couple of weeks ago, they asked Bro. Peter to try his best to get a game with the Tulane Frosh, because Ben Reilly and Coffey, and some fighters who first beat him, just what he will do in the future is uncertain, of course, but he has established himself as a logical contender for the heavyweight championship.

More than 13,000 spectators saw professional tennis inaugurated in New York last week, with Vincent Richards, Mary Brown and Suzanne Lenglen entering the ranks of professionals. The interest in the matches was intense, and from the enthusiastic cheering of the remarkable show, one could not continue in the impression that tennis must be amateur to delight the observers.

The players seemed to put as much in their game as ever they did on the tournament courts. Why shouldn't they? Most of them love the game for its own sake, and the making of money is an idea that has just dawned upon them. There is no reason why they should loaf through tennis merely because they are paid to play. Many a business man loves his work, which is his meat ticket, too.

Pennock, too, in our opinion, deserves as much credit as Alexander, from a pitching standpoint. Each won two well hurled games, and finished the last, without being scored upon. Hoyt, who deserved to win the seventh game, did not deserve to win the fifth, when he allowed fourteen hits. So his break was even.

Babe Ruth was a grave danger to the Cardinals throughout the series, but do not get the idea that he was given no occasion to hit the ball in the last two games. The first three times he was at bat in the sixth game, against Alexander, the record shows: First inning: Ball, ball, ball, strike called, strike missed, grounds to first. Third inning: Strike called, grounds to first.

Sixth inning: (Two on base) Strike, ball, strike, strike out. We haven't our notes for the last appearance of the Babe in this game. In the final game, in the ninth inning, the Babe was walked. Here is how Alexander pitched to him that time: Strike, ball, foul ball, ball, ball, ball.

Well, the first casualty in the ranks of the managers is George Siler, who, it is announced will not manage St. Louis next season. It is even hinted that he will not even play for St. Louis but will be traded.

Following a joint meeting of the Harrison County board of supervisors and the Harrison County Road Protection Commission, H. D. Shaw, well known to the Bay St. Louis community, was employed to make plans and specifications for the additional seawall work along the beach front and to supervise its construction. A special meeting of the supervisors was set for November 15 when bids for the new work will be received. The wall will be of the step type, pattern to correspond with the fourteenth section which has just been completed.

To be complete, it is labeled both.

Science Fighting the Common Cold Disease

One of the amazing outlooks of present day life is the general acceptance of the common cold as an inevitable ailment. That it is a source of great inconvenience much danger and economic loss is not disputed. However, the idea that once here it must always afflict us remains strongly entrenched.

It is refreshing to learn that the Chemical Foundation is preparing to undertake a scientific study of this common cold. The medical profession has not made much progress in combating the epidemic cold as is possible. The results of intensive research into the methods of preventing other diseases indicate that colds, which are evolved, if proper measures are evolved, can be prevented.

Colds, in addition to being troublesome and inconvenient, render the sufferer liable to grave diseases on account of lessened vitality and consequent lessened resistance to disease germs. A "bad cold" becomes a sufferer from other more serious maladies like influenza and pneumonia.

Of course, every citizen can do much to prevent the spread of colds, which spread by contact and association. A cold is not a disease when a sufferer from cold thought about the other fellow, but nowadays it is frequent for one to remain aloof, and sometimes, in bed, during the course of a cold.

QUEEN MARIE ATTENDS WHITE HOUSE DINNER

Wears Jeweled Crown and Royal Robes at State Dinner—
Formal Welcome of Nation Is Tendered
Queen By President.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Blazing with the crown and jewels of her royal Rumanian mother, Queen Marie, of Rumania, sat tonight at President Coolidge's right hand, the first reigning queen ever to be entertained at a White House state banquet.

Diamonds glittered in the crown circling the shingled auburn tresses of the "most beautiful queen in Europe."

Decorations shone on her breast and down the length of her shoulders, completing the trappings of royalty in which the Rumanian queen faced the chief executive and members of the cabinet of the world's outstanding democracy.

Down the length of the flower-laden table were seated the president's official family and heads of foreign missions in Washington with their wives. Prince Nicholas, Princess Ileana and other members of the royal party had their places at the sides of guests without titles.

The simple colonial state dining room where presidents and heads of state since the days of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams have been accustomed to entertain distinguished visitors, furnished the setting of the regal banquet.

The queen wore the diamond tiara with the crown-shaped pearl ropes which she inherited from her mother, Grand Duchess Marie, of Russia, daughter of Czar Alexander. Across the front of her georgette crepe gown she wore the blue ribbon and the glittering star of the Order of Carol, highest Rumanian decoration.

Her famous pearls, three great strands of them and large pearl earrings completed her ornaments. Her gown was simply cut, the neck round in front descending to a low V in the back. Sequins touched to an iridescent glitter the graceful lines of her dress.

Her reception at the White House this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the famous blue room, the return call of the president and Mrs. Coolidge at the Rumanian legation shortly afterwards, and the queen's entertainment tonight, discharged the traditional amenities of nations.

The function came as the climax to a day in which Queen Marie delved deep into American history, visiting as preliminaries to her White House call, Washington's home at Mount Vernon, the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington National cemetery, and the Lincoln Memorial.

The reception ceremony at the White House was brief and formal. Two official cars bearing the seal of the United States called for her. Under escort of J. Butler Wright, and Radu T. Djuvara, Rumanian charge, the queen and Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana were taken swiftly to the White House.

Secretary Kellogg had joined the president and Mrs. Coolidge in the blue room. Mr. Wright announced the queen. A moment later she presented her children to the chief executive and his lady, and the formality that surrounds the meetings of heads of states were complete.

The queen, Princess Ileana, Prince Nicholas and other members of the royal party left the legation this morning for their sightseeing tour. Mr. Wright acted as guide. The queen rode in a black and olive touring car with the top down, which led the procession of more than a dozen machines.

The queen wore a full-length mole-skin coat with a huge bunch of Parma violets pinned to the shawl collar. Under her coat she wore a mouse colored wool crepe dress of straight simple lines, and a toque of crushed velvet to match. Beige stockings and kid slippers completed her costume.

The Princess Ileana was smartly clad in a mahogany velvet ensemble, colored in black and white, worn with a motoring plush hat of vagabond lines, and blending shoes and stockings.

The visit to the tomb of the unknown soldier was marked by a simple ceremony of tribute, when the queen, pausing for a moment of silent prayer with head bowed, laid on the grave overlooking the Potomac and the distant capitol a wreath of roses in the tri-color of Rumania.

You secure a nitrate that mixes with the soil moisture and dissolves at once. Its nitrogen increases the yield of truck crops, and gives a crispness and firmness that makes them carry better.

Calcium Nitrate gives the crop something else—lime—which sweetens acid soil and puts a sweetness in the vegetables themselves. It makes sandy soils hold water better, and prevents them from drying out so rapidly. It does not leave a harmful residue in the soil, nor readily leach away.

It is no higher in price than a nitrogen fertilizer alone, yet contains as much nitrogen. If your fertilizer dealer can't supply you, write to H. O. Stark, 1320 Eblen Road, New Orleans, La.

Have You These Symptoms of Nerve Exhaustion?

Do you get excited easily? Do you become fatigued after slight exertion? Are your hands and feet cold? Do you suffer from constipation or stomach trouble? Is your sleep disturbed by troubled dreams? Have you spells of irritability? Are you often gloomy and pessimistic? Do you suffer from heart palpitation, cold sweats, ringing in the ears, dizzy spells?

These are a few of the signs of unhealthy nerves that are steadily robbing thousands of people of their youth and health.

What Causes Sick Nerves
In women this is largely due to overactive emotions, and to the constant turmoil in their domestic and marital relations. In men, these signs of nerve exhaustion are produced as a result of worries, intense concentration, excesses and vices. The mad pace at which we are traveling is wrecking the entire nervous organization.

Nerve Exhaustion is not a malady that comes suddenly. In fact, it is a very gradual development that deceives scores of men and women who appear to be in the best of health. Yet all the time their nerves are in a constant state of upheaval, slowly underrating their entire organism.

How to Strengthen Them
No tonic or single system of exercises can ever restore the health and vigor to weak, sick, unbalanced nerves. To regenerate lost nerve force to build up strong, sound nerves requires an understanding of the action and the function of the nerves. It is a knowledge of the natural laws of nerve fatigue, of mental and physical exhaustion and nerve metabolism. And it is only through the application of these laws that stubborn cases of Nerve Exhaustion can be overcome.

YOUNG FOLKS PLAN HALLOWE'EN FROLIC

October 31st Day of Ghosts, Witches, Spooks and Black Cats—Fasten Your Gaites and Sign the May Be at Nicholson Ave. Next Day.

If spooks, spirits, ghosts, hobgoblins and the like ever run riot over the face of this globe, they do so on the eve of All Saints Day, commonly known as Halloween the night of Oct. 31.

Some folks avow that they have caught glimpses of these weird creatures on the night before All Hallow or All Saints Day. Maybe they have, and then again maybe they were in just that frame of mind when they would have been able to see something anyone should have suggested to them. Some say they have taken a bite out of an apple just at midnight while standing before a mirror or lead saw clearly in the mirror the image, of—well maybe it was no one save themselves they saw in the glass.

At any rate the occasion is looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation, especially among the young folks. They get a lot of pleasure out of the parties on this evening, and the many other entertainments which are arranged for its celebration.

Already the youngsters, and grown ups around Bay St. Louis are getting things in shape for this eventful occasion. Store keepers also get a lot of pleasure out of the celebration for it brings in a few extra coins from those who purchase black cats, bats, witches, broom sticks, skeletons and the like, all made of paper and used in the decorations of the homes and the make up of costumes for those who go out for a big evening.

It is surprising every year about this time the amount of black and yellow paper and card board that is sold retail at The Echo office. Schools locally and over the county buy a good deal of the material for Halloween affairs.

Halloween is also a time for pranks. It will be remembered one year the car on the Nicholson avenue, ornamenting the L. & N. station place, were carried on to Bay St. Louis and set up in front of Uncle Charlie's garage, and signs from this city taken off of places of business were found in Nicholson avenue. It might be well to fasten the gate and tack down business signs or, better yet, put them high and out of reach. The young folks must have a good time; we had ours, and cannot blame them very much after all.

Halloween probably got its mode of celebration from the Scotch. In Scotland the evening is celebrated in a great style and in a very mystic fashion. The young folks play all kinds of tricks and antics on this date, and the mode of celebration has spread to many other countries. It is one of the big pleasure events in this country, and folks here, if they do not take an active part in the celebration, will probably have a lot of fun watching those who do.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Breath returned home Wednesday afternoon from a trip along the coast as far as Mobile, where they visited. They had left originally planned to tour Florida in their car, but the news of an impending hurricane predicted to strike that section caused their trip to be curtailed. However, the trip was one of much interest and pleasure, Mr. and Mrs. Breath reporting that in addition to ideal weather the roads were equally as good.

Miss Weston is one of admired and most popular young ladies in smart circles.

Mrs. E. W. Drackett and Mrs. H. U. Cauty will be joint hostesses at bridge next Saturday afternoon at the Cozy Corner, in compliment to friends, invitations issued today for the event.

LEO. W. SEAL TELLS OF INTERESTING EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Forestry Department Demonstrates Injury Caused By Fires—How Forest Thrive Shown in Contrast When Protected.

Leo W. Seal, cashier of the Hancock County Bank, and prominently connected with a number of other business enterprises, while in Jackson this week in the interest of business matters, returned home Tuesday and took occasion to visit the annual state fair held at that place.

"It is by far the largest and especially it is to be noted there is a greater variety of things on exhibition, particularly did I notice this in the agricultural department. Thus, it will be shown that farmers and others are diversifying their crops and entering other lines of endeavor that is kindred to their work."

"What is the exhibit that struck your interest most?" queried a Echo reporter. Quick, like a flash, he answered: "At this time and in this critical period when our forest wealth is diminishing, the thing that appealed to me most was the exhibit put on by the State Forestry Department, showing the appalling injury by fire to our forests, since this is one of our chief assets of natural wealth, especially applicable to South Mississippi. I was glad to see so constructive an exhibit, and I, for one, will favor the moving of the entire exhibit from Jackson to Gulfport next month in order that more people, especially from this section, may see and learn."

The exhibit it appears, from Mr. Seal's description, is a remarkable one. So true to life-like and proportionately life-size. There is a clump of young pines growing where the breath of fire has failed to mar, and the healthiest looking pines, indicating rapid growth, is revealed. On the other hand is a portion of the place of exhibit where trees have suffered repeatedly from their juxtaposition (?) to forest fires, and the result tells its own spirit. Land, where forest trees have ragged is also shown, and the different strata are shown before fire and after fire; where the mineral and other necessary properties for the life of trees has become dead and carry no further sustenance.

Mr. Seal advocated, while in Jackson, that the exhibit be brought to South Mississippi in order that its benefit may spread and expand over a greater area. It is the work of professionals from a scientific part, and of artist in the sense of physical presentation. It presents such attention and visited by thousands daily.
